

SAS70 TYPE - TWO

SAS 70 Type II Certification

The SAS 70 Type II certification ensures that we have the processes and safeguards in place to protect the data you entrust us with. Performed by an independent accounting firm, the audit is an internationally recognized and respected auditing standard for technology outsourcing companies specifically. Our certification attests to the fact that the auditor finds our data center to have sufficient processes, controls and safeguards to keep your data safe from theft, corruption or mishandling.

To receive this certification, Propertyware's data center's processes, procedures and controls were formally and thoroughly reviewed, evaluated and found to meet Type II standards. And unlike the Type I Certification, which only measures a single point in time, Type II Certification measures and evaluates Propertyware's Data Center over a period of time.

You can have peace of mind that your assets and data will be safe in Propertyware's Data Center. And they will continue to be safe, as we recommit to the audit every nine months.

Why is SAS 70 Type II important to you?

SAS 70 Type II enables us to demonstrate that we have adequate controls and safeguards when we host data belonging to you, and that an independent accounting firm has examined these controls and safeguards. To be certified means that the controls set by Propertyware's Data Center are fair and suitably designed to meet their specific objectives, and that they are operating effectively.

In order to achieve certification, our processes, procedures and controls are formally reviewed, evaluated and found to meet SAS 70 standards. The audit evaluates Propertyware's Data Center's controls pertaining to our service delivery and operations, infrastructure maintenance, customer implementation, change management, back up of programs and data files and logical and physical data center access. It also provides us with a benchmark for continuing to improve our processes, procedures and controls.
